Historic Week of Jewish Music June 5 to 11, 1998

East Side, West Side, all around the town. The streets of Manhattan will resound with bazzanut - the "soul music" of the Jewish people - as the Cantors Assembly marks its 50th Anniversary with a week of festive celebration of song in New York City. Rabbi David Lincoln has pointed out that "there are very few groups left in Jewish communal life where clergy of all streams join for the benefit of all Jews. The Cantors Assembly is, in many ways, a unique group that reaches out to include dedicated Conservative, Orthodox and Reform men and women who are determined to preserve the beauty of liturgical music that has inspired our people throughout history.

We are exceedingly proud that Park Avenue Synagogue has been asked to host both the beginning and end of this historic celebration with a unique Shabbat of singing, services and meals, and a final gala concert and banquet. While the Hotel Marriott at the World Trade Center will serve as celebration headquarters, historic sites throughout the city will provide the backdrop for events that will celebrate both the 50th birthday of the world's largest body of bazzanim and the 50th Anniversary of the State of Israel.

The historic festivities will begin in our sanctuary, Friday and Saturday, June 5th and 6th, with special Shabbat Services that will include the participation of renowned cantors from around the world. What a unique and amazing experience - to join in prayer within a congregation of so many of our most celebrated bazzanim! The participation and exciting ruach will certainly be an inspirational beginning to a week of unforgettable concerts and events; and, these special services will be followed by a Shabbat dinner and lunch with singing, study, dance and joyous camaraderie, to which congregants may make reservations and join with the cantors. We also will provide a S'udab Sh'lisbit, a light dinner between Minhah and Maariv, with a program of study and spirited discussion featuring the executive director and president of United Synagogue, Rabbi Jerry Epstein and Stephen Wolnek.

Shabbat, however, is just the beginning of the festivities. Sunday afternoon, June 7th will feature this country's largest outdoor celebration of Israel's 50th Anniversary, with a grand salute at Central Park's North Meadow (at 98th Street), featuring renowned performers Yehoram Gaon, Yaffa Yarkoni, Pete Seeger, and the voices of 1,200 pupils from Jewish schools in Greater New York. Famed Carnegie Hall will be the site of an historic cantorial concert on Monday evening, June 8th. Featured will be 22 of the world's foremost bazzanim, including our own Cantor Lefkowitz who will be among the celebrated soloists - accompanied by choir and orchestra - presenting a concert of bazzanic masterpieces that have been the heart and soul of the Jewish people during 2,000 years of synagogue worship. Other programs and concerts will take place at the landmark Eldridge Street Synagogue on the Lower East Side, Ellis Island and Temple Emanu-El on 5th Avenue.

Dear All,

I am not good at saying goodbye. I never was. As I sit here thinking of how to say goodbye...the following moment comes to mind.

It was sometime in the middle of March. I was leading a Lunch and Learn session. The participants began to ask me questions: "Why are you moving to Seattle?" "What will you do there?" "How do you feel about leaving Park Avenue Synagogue?" "Will they be hiring another rabbi?" And so on. I said to them: "I can't answer your questions today. My emotions are too raw." Still, people continued to ask. As I began to teach, tears filled my eyes. My voice wavered. Everyone was silent. No more questions...just comforting words.

We all have our days, days when we do not feel strong enough to discuss certain topics because our emotions are too intense, too much in process to be verbalized. For me, that day in March was one of those days. I've had others, before and since. I imagine I have more yet to come. That is good. If leaving were too easy for me, I would worry that my experience here had been worth little. That is hardly the case. And those of you who know me understand that.

To answer the questions: I am moving to Seattle to be with Seth Rosenbloom, my fiance, soon-to-be-husband, a wonderful man who captured by heart - at first, over the telephone, and later, in person. Among his many lovable qualities: he has a wonderful sense of humor, and he cooks...which is good...since I don't. So, while I am sad to be leaving, I am truly looking forward to my life with him. I am not yet sure what I will do in Seattle, but I trust that I will find some meaningful work in the Jewish community.

I feel blessed to have had the opportunity of being at Park Avenue Synagogue for the past five years. I will miss being part of this community. I will miss serving as your rabbi. I will think of my time here often, of the special interactions I have had with so many of you. I have cherished them, and will continue to do so. I couldn't forget my tenure here even if I tried. You have had an incredible impact on my life, on my soul.

Newest Book by Rabbi Judah Nadich Rabbi Akiba and His Contemporaries

The sixth book of Dr. Judah Nadich, entitled Rabbi Akiba and His Contemporaries, was released for publication this past April, 1998 by Jason Aronson, Inc. It is a successor book to his two volumes of The Legends of the Rabbis. It relates the stories told by and about the great rabbis and scholars of the talmudic period, and includes their ethical and moral teachings, their understanding of biblical tales, and historical and biographical information.

For example, in the essay: "The Things Rabbi Akiba Taught His Sons" - The story is told that Rabbi Akiba once made a banquet for his son and over every single jug of wine that he opened, he said, "Good wine! Here's to the life of rabbis and their students!" When Rabbi Akiba's son married, how did he conduct himself? After his wife entered the nuptial chamber with him, he stayed awake all night, reading in the Torah and studying aggadot.

He asked her, "Bring me a lamp and light it." She brought him a lamp and kept it lit for him all night. Standing by his side, she held the light for him. He opened the scroll, unrolled it from beginning to end and from end to beginning, while all night long she remained standing, holding the light for him until dawn came. At dawn Rabbi Akiba came to his son and asked him, "Is she well-found or ill-found?" His son answered, "She is well-found."

According to Elie Wiesel, "Rabbi Nadich enchants the reader with the profound wisdom of ancient founders of rabbinic literature and the depth of their teaching."

End-Of-Year Message From Our Religious School

The academic year of 1997-1998 has been a very satisfying and productive one. Among the accomplishments we are most proud of is the size of our Gan kindergarten class, which is filled with 39 five and six year-old children. We take this as a clear indication of the growing number of parents who are interested in providing Jewish education for their children from an early age, as well as a reflection of the fine start that many of these children and their parents experienced in our Early Childhood Center.

This year, for the first time, we implemented a Tefilah curriculum throughout all the school's classes. Students discuss the structure of the Siddur and the main ideas of selected prayers. We also introduced a new curriculum on the Prophets in the Hay grade. Since Hay students receive their Bar/Bat Mitzvah dates and are assigned their portion of the Torah and Haftarah in the beginning of that year, we hope to make their individual readings more meaningful by teaching them within the broader context of the Prophets in general. As each student's knowledge of a particular prophet grows, he or she then shares those ideas with the entire class. These sessions are exciting and engage students actively in the process of learning, while they deepen their understanding of the Bar/Bat Mitzvah ceremony itself.

In addition to the many wonderful programs and events of the year, we also published the first edition of a school newsletter, Hakol, which was received enthusiastically by both students and parents. We thank Nadine Habusha and Lucy Chudson, the editors of the newsletter, for their time and enthusiasm in organizing and publishing it.

The high school students form a strong group involved in studies, social action activities and social events. On a terrific trip to Newport, Rhode Island in the fall, our students and a group of students from Providence spent a day together visiting different points of interest. In March, a large group of students and parents saw the play "The Last Night of Ballyhoo", which explores the life of a Southern Jewish family and its relationship to Judaism.

All these achievements have been possible because of the devotion and hard work of both the elementary and high school faculties. Thank you and "Kol Hakavod" to every one of our thirty teachers.

We would like to extend our appreciation to the clergy, the School Board and the Parents' Association for their care and support of the schools and for their many efforts to generate new ideas and to help maintain its excellence.

- Varda Hubara
Educational Director

From the Parents' Association

Laurie Harris and I have enjoyed our two years as co-presidents of the Parents' Association. We want to thank everyone for their support.

Now, it's time to pass the torch along to a new group of officers, although Laurie, Ellen Harrow and I will continue to offer our assistance and advice. In addition to the elected officers named on page 1, Julie Ruvkin has agreed to chair the annual Parents' Association Sukkah Dinner again, while Barbara Weinstein has consented to chair a second one. Save the dates October 7th and 8th for these two Parents' Association hosted Sukkah dinners. Lynn Jawitz will again coordinate decoration of the Sukkah, Sanctuary and Appleman Chapel.

Please also save the dates of September 14, 15 and 17 for Welcome Coffees and September 23 and 24 for the first Planning Meetings.

We know that you wish the new officers good luck and will offer them your continued cooperation.

Wishing everyone a great year!

My Experiences in Israel

by Lauren Antler

I was honored to be the first recipient of the Rabbi Judah Nadich stipend to go to Israel this past summer. It was a wonderful experience. I went on a program run by the Nesiya Institute, called the Kehillah Community Service Project. It was a six week intensive community service trip, which also combined aspects of art and cultural experience, as well as hiking and outdoor adventure, with the study of Jewish texts. The program focused a good deal of attention on creating deeper understanding between teenagers from different Judaic denominations.

Going to Israel with Nesiya made me more aware of the religious communities which exist both in Israel and in the United States. I was rooming with American and Israeli teenagers, some of whom were Orthodox, and for the first time in my life, I was exposed to an Orthodox lifestyle. I was brought together with kids from religious and secular schools, and for essentially the first time, I was made aware of the Jewish life and culture which exists outside of Reform and Conservative Hebrew high schools and confirmation classes. It helped me realize how much more there is to Judaism than the handful of holidays which I celebrate. Amidst this tapestry of diverse Judaism and culture, I was destined to question my own Judaism. Why do I perform the rituals that I do? What type of religious service is most helpful to me? Is Conservative Judaism right for me? Some of these questions were answered, while others remain unanswered as I continue to ponder them in my own mind.

I went to Israel expecting to change my religious beliefs. However, I found that instead of changing my Conservative values and beliefs, I reconfirmed them. Although my outlook on Conservative Judaism was not vastly changed, the dialectic process of questioning and reaffirming my own Judaism changed me greatly as a Jew, and as a critical thinker.

Book of Remembrance Publishing Deadline Friday, June 26

Park Avenue Synagogue publishes a Book of Remembrance every year, for Yom Kippur, in which members of our congregation can list the names of their departed loved ones. The deadline for the inclusion of names to be listed is Friday, June 26.

Since there is no carryover of listings from one year to the next, the names of loved ones must be resubmitted every year.

Names of the deceased listed in the Book of Remembrance are memorialized when Yizkor is recited four times during the year, during the Yizkor Memorial Services on Yom Kippur and on the second day of the Festivals of Sukkot and Shavuot. During Passover, the Yizkor Memorial Service takes place on the eighth day of Passover.

The publishing deadline is a firm one. Therefore, to avoid disappointment, return the card you will receive in the mail promptly.

Tisha B'Av Will Be Observed on Saturday, August 1

From sundown, Saturday, August 1 to the night of Sunday, August 2, Tisha B'Av (the ninth day of the month of Av) is observed by Jews worldwide as a day of remembrance of the many tragic events in the Jewish historical past.

At Park Avenue Synagogue, a special service in observance of Tisha B'Av will take place on Saturday evening, August 1, beginning at 8 P.M., with the regular Minhah service at 6 P.M.

In this service, the lights are dimmed, candles are lit, and the events of the past are recalled through readings in the Book of Lamentations, selections of appropriate poetry, and the singing of liturgical music.

Call Your Clergy

The rabbis and cantors of Park Avenue Synagogue are eager to serve you. However, unless you call them, they cannot always know something has happened in your life which could be either enhanced or helped by a visit from them.

Nothing distresses them more than to hear they failed to be of assistance when there was a need. They are earnestly dedicated to the conviction that each congregant is truly worthy of their consideration. But, they can offer their services only when they are made aware of your needs.

Be both kind to yourself and fair to your clergy! Inform them if you desire their services. You cannot assume that they have heard from someone else.
